ノルだた（）ノじ（「た）ス

The reign of James the First is chiefly distinguished by the new translation of the Bible a work of such excellence that it has been accepted by the profoundest scholars as a perfect standard Memorandum

METROPOLITAN £1234567890

Doublic Pica Mudiuciral.

INTR()DC゙ (TVON:

The great discovery of the Printing Art came a long period before the masses were able to read, and as all innovations are decried by the ignorant, we must not be greatly surprised that a departure from an established custom was very greatly opposed by the major part of the population at that period Antique Printing NORTHUMBERLAND

THE dedication of this work being made by the author to the Divine Majesty only, how should we presume to interest a mortal man's patronage in it?

Much less do we think it meet to seek the recommendation of the Muses, for he himself was certain to have been inspired with a far diviner breath than comes from Helicon ; the world therefore, shall receive it in that naked simplicity even as he left it, without addition either of support or ornament, more than is included in itself. We leave it perfectly free and unforstalled to every man's judgment, or to the good he shall gain by perusal. Only for the clearing of some passages zee thought it not unsuitable to make the common Readers privy to a few particulars of the conclition or disposition of the person.

Being nobly born, and endued with eminent gifts of the mind, and having by a good education industry, and labour, attained an unusual height of excellency at Trinity College, Cambridge.

T${ }^{\top}$ HE admirers and lovers of Charles Lamb (and in his case, more perhaps than in that of any other name in the literary world are these terms synonymous) will, no doubt, hail with peculiar satisfaction this fresh contribution to a full knowledge of his life and genius, emanating, as it does, from a gifted friend, who, at the great age of seventy-seren, records his thoughts and recollections of "Elia." Lamb had his "exceeding great reward" for the renunciation of his hopes, and for all his very anxious care of his afflicted sister, in her unbounded devotion to himself. Wordsworth thus alludes to their attachment in a beautiful tribute to the memory of his friend:-

Our days glide on;

And let him grieve who cannot choose but grieve
That he hath been an Elm without his Vine,
And her bright dower of clustering charities,
That, round his trunk and branches, might have cluns.
Enriching and adorning. Unto him
Not so emriched, not so adorned, to him
Was given a sister,
In whom his reason and intelligent heart
Found-for all interests, hopes, and tender cares,
All softening, humanising, hallowing powers,
Whether withheld, or for her salie unsought-
More than sufficient recompense!
Her love
Was as the love of mothers; and when year,
Lifting the boy to man's estate, had called
The long protected to assume the part
Of a protector, the first filial tie
W'as undissolved; and, in or ont of sight,
Remained imperishably interwoven
With life itself. Thus, mid a shifting world,
Did they together testify of time
And seasons' difference-a double tree.
The following passage, taken from Talfourd's "Final Memorials of Lamb," will give the reader some additional insight into the character of brother and sister, showing the peculiar relation in which they stood to each other, and the care and tenderness with which Charles fulfilled the duty he had taken upon himself. Except to a few who were acquainted with the tragical occurrences of Lamb's early life, his peculiarities may be strange-to be forgiven, indeed, to the excellences of his nature and the delicacy of his genius, but still in themselves as much to be wondered at as deplored. The sweetness of his character, breathed through his

For Mutual Life Assurance, Ammities, &oc. Io

THE National Provident Institution was established in 1835 , on the principle of Mutual Assurance, to enable its members to assure their lives at the lowest rate of charge consistent with the security of the Society. By economical management, the careful selection of lives, and introduction of improvements where necessary, this Institution has succeeded in obtaining a large share of the public confidence and support. And, in accordance with the Principle of Mutual Assurance, the entire profits of the business done by this Office belong to and are divided exclusively amongst the Members.

DIVISION OF PROFITS.
The Profits are divided every Five Years, and are appropriated, at the option of the Members, either in the shape of a reduction of the future premiums, or a Bonus added to the sum assured. The next division of profits will be made up to the 20th of Norember, 1867, and the holder of every Policy issued prior to that date will then be entitled to a share in the profits of the five preceding years. The total amount of profits realised and divided amongst the Members, from the commencement of this Institution in 1835 , to the 20th of November, 1862, was E $1,227,2585 \mathrm{~s}$. 3d., as is shown by the sumpluses declared at the five investigations made to that date. This very large fund has been divided amongst the Policy holders

The most useful Founts that a Printer can have in his Office are the CLARENDONS: they make a striking Word or Line either in a Hand Bill or Title Page, and do not orrwhelm the other lines. They have been made with great care, so that while they are distinct and striking, they possest a very graceful outline, aroiding on one hand the clumsy inelegance of the Antique or Egyptian Character, hitherto in nse among Printers, and on the other, the appearance of an ordinary Roman Letter thickened by long use nuder the machine.
